Alleged Master Mind Is Captured as He Steps From the Adriatic.
A BOLD YOUNG GREEK
Federal Agent Had Trailed Operations Through U. S. and in Europe.
BILLS OF LADING FORGED

Take Deals in Sugar Brought In Hundreds of Thousands, Officials Say.
To the list of "master minds" was added yesterday the name of George D. Pterotis, a suave young Greek who arrived from London on the Adriatic and was arrested at the pier by two agents of the Department of Justice on indictments charging him with being the head of an international forger scheme.
For three months the Department of Justice, under the personal direction of William J. Flynn, chief of the bureau of investigation, has been tracing the movements of Pterotis and his associates. The investigation has carried agents to London, Paris and Greece. With the arrest of Pterotis at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Agents Ralph Navarro and Jack Dunn the trap was sprung and within four hours three other men said to be connected with the conspiracy were under arrest. The names of the others are George Brouzos, A. J. Dritsas and Thomas Tzomos.
The Federal Grand Jury on September 3 returned secret indictments against seven men, charging them with forging bills of lading. Henry B. Kelly, Assistant United States District Attorney, presented the case to the Grand Jury and will prosecute the case in court. The four men in custody will be arraigned this morning. The other three are expected to be under arrest soon.

Leader Got Quarter Million.
The scheme was far reaching in its scope, but it was said last night at the Department of Justice that Pterotis actually has obtained only $250,000 in cash.
Last October the American Company of Commerce and Industry, with offices at 79 Wall street, Pterotis was made president and treasurer and George Brouzos was secretary. On March 21, the company, it is charged, was made over to three "dummy" men, whose names the business of the company was "carried on." Pterotis and his associates, however, moved to 47 West 79th street and directed operations from there.
Through agents in Greece, according to the Government documents, letters of credit amounting to $1,500,000 were obtained on May 5, but only two or three sacks of sugar or coffee were sent. Eleven such shipments were made between May 5 and June 4.
Pterotis, the officials say, admitted that he had lading to his office and changed the number to read 2,200 sacks of sugar in some cases, 3,300 in others. The revised bills of lading, it is charged, were then presented to the banks where letters of credit had been established and they were honored without question. The bills ranged in amount from $25,000 to $40,000.

Was Trained Over Europe.
When the shipments arrived in Greece the men who had ordered them were dispatched to find sugar and immediately cabled to New York. The investigation was started by bank detectives and agents of the Department of Justice.
Pterotis left for France on June 5, and near him was a detective who tracked him to Paris and later to London, where he set up as a wealthy American importer, made many friends and, according to the Department of Justice, promised to make them all rich when he returned to America. It is said that Pterotis, through some one in the country, was informed that the investigation had been dropped and the whole affair had blown over. He then fled to London and, according to the Department of Justice, he was in London when he was arrested.
When Pterotis was arrested he stepped ashore with trunk and baggage and was taken to the pier by two agents of the Department of Justice. He was then taken to the pier by two agents of the Department of Justice. He was then taken to the pier by two agents of the Department of Justice.

More Than 5,600,000 Pay Income Taxes This Year
WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—More than 5,600,000 firms and individuals are paying income taxes this year, according to figures made public to-night by the Bureau of Internal Revenue. These figures also reveal that practically 1,000,000 taxpayers have already paid their income taxes in full.
The bureau's statement shows that 4,900,000 persons are paying income taxes on incomes of $5,000 or less and that fewer than 600,000 of this number have not paid their taxes in full, choosing the alternative method of paying by installments. Individual returns for incomes in excess of $5,000, including those of individuals and firms, numbered 700,000.
Almost 350,000 corporations have filed income tax returns, but only 65,000 have paid their taxes in full.

SMITH WILL TRY FOR B. R. T. PEACE
Governor to Meet Gompers and Strikers' Lawyer in Baltimore Monday.
9 INDICTED FOR MURDER

More Cars and Trains Put in Operation—Reds Seek Converts Among Unionists.
Hope that the B. R. T. strike may be settled by Monday evening was given yesterday to harassed Brooklynites, worried strikers and over-worked B. R. T. officials when Gov. Smith agreed to meet James A. Vahey, counsel for the Amalgamated Union, and Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, in an effort to end the deadlock.
The entrance of Gov. Smith into the situation is taken as a real possibility of settlement for both strikers and company officials are sick of the strike and will be sicker before Monday evening drags into being. Both sides still maintain a bold and confident front, with Lindsey M. Garrison, receiver of the B. R. T., hard at work building up a "new permanent organization," but nobody is really enjoying the situation except strike breakers, who are making small fortunes knocking down fares and out of ringing them up.
Gov. Smith's decision was given after he had received the following appeal by telegram from Mr. Vahey: "I have been instructed by the executive officers of the Amalgamated Association to ask you to join with Samuel Gompers and myself in an appeal to Federal Judge Mayer to help end the strike of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit system, affecting a great multitude of people, by meeting with Mr. Gompers and me in New York city, on any other convenient place, on Saturday or Monday. I think you in advance for anything you may wish to say in the situation and await an early reply."
In reply Gov. Smith telegraphed: "I shall be glad to meet Samuel Gompers and myself at the Baltimore Hotel, New York, at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, as requested in your telegram just received."

Judge Mayer Not Mentioned.
It will be noted that Gov. S. says nothing about joining with labor leaders in an appeal to Judge Mayer, and the opinion was expressed yesterday that he might take other means to end the strike.
The negotiations as planned by the labor men apparently contemplate including the Amalgamated Association in the dealings with Judge Mayer, and the opinion was expressed yesterday that he might take other means to end the strike.

Many Strikers Return to Work.
Although B. R. T. officials insist that 2,000 of a total of 8,000 strikers have returned to work, figures given out at the office of the Amalgamated Association yesterday stating that only 162 of 1,300 strikers had given in and returned to work. Nevertheless service was almost normal yesterday on fifty-one of seventy-seven surface lines during non-rush hours. The service was equal.

'BOOS' FOR 2 LEADERS
Radicals Howl When Holland and Brady Are Put on Committee.
B. R. T. STRIKE INDORSED

Police reserves went to the rescue of Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, when the meeting in the Central Opera House over which he was presiding, got beyond his control and riotous and general disorder wound up the initial attempt to bring into being New York's "one big union," embracing more than 750,000 men.
One delegate from the painters' union, beaten up by men of the building trades, was carried from the hall, and a call for police brought reserves from the East Fifty-seventh street station. When they arrived order had been obtained and the meeting adjourned.
The fights were the direct result of the naming of James P. Holland, president of the State Federation of Labor, and Peter J. Brady as members of a committee to draw up a working constitution for the new central body. When Mr. Gompers called the name of Holland a storm of boos rose from the more radical delegates, who demanded that his name be withdrawn from the list. They loosed again when Brady's name was reached, and then trouble started on the floor.
Husky Men Guard Holland.
Gompers called to Holland, asking him if he would serve upon the committee. The State Labor leader started down the floor, making his way toward the aisle, apparently intent upon blocking his path. But a bodyguard of husky teamsters and longshoremen shouldered up the aisle and escorted Holland to the platform.
Gompers stormed and pleaded in vain for order, his voice drowned in the yell of nearly a thousand men. The delegates had split up into warring groups. Several of them ran up to the platform and shouted at the chairman: "They're killing a man, and you'll be responsible for his death."
Then the hubbub died down and Holland, with his face set, shook his fist at the crowd and shouted: "I know where this booby comes from. I've fought the Bolsheviks of this city since I've been in the labor movement and I'll keep on fighting them until I die." He then turned to Gompers and said: "I'll see you, Mr. Chairman."

Discontent Forced to Surface.
President Gompers was deeply shaken by the outbreak. He had guided the meeting through the earlier stages carefully along the lines decided upon by the executive committee, which is sponsoring the consolidation, and up to this point had been able to keep the meeting in order.
The fight forced to the surface the discontent which has been growing for some time among certain of the unions in the city against the rule of the national federation. It appeared early in the meeting, when the Painters Union, following a vote of support for the striking B. R. T. trainmen, endeavored to foment similar support for its own men. The motion was bowled down.
There was plain evidence of a struggle for supremacy in the new body between J. P. Coughlin, president of the Brooklyn Central Labor Council; Edward J. Hannan, president of the Central Federation of Labor of New York, both of whom organizations went out of existence last night; and Robert F. Brice, head of the Building Trades Council.
The new organization was at least named last night. It is to be called the Central Trades and Labor Council of New York and vicinity. Matters of organization are to be proceeded with as soon as the committee on constitution, which was appointed last night, calls the next meeting of the delegates.
Mr. Gompers, in the speech with which he opened the convention, called upon the labor of New York city to present a united front to the enemies of labor throughout the country. He issued a defiance to the United States Chamber of Commerce and to the men who, he said, are "trying to coerce and intimidate labor."
Labor's stand with regard to the high cost of living situation was clearly put when Mr. Gompers declared that reduction of wages would be related to the last ditch and "regardless of consequences."

Not only have the military and civil courts been told to kill offenders for the slightest charges of disobedience of the Soviet principles but orders have been made retroactive, rendering several thousand now in Russian prisons liable to execution if the judges decide to accept Moscow's invitation to "have a holiday of savagery and celebrate the inability of the Poles to crush the Russian proletariat."

400,000 in Revolving Armed Bands; Red Flag Over 2,000 Block Houses.
LONDON, Sept. 10.—Conferences at Milan, Italy, to-day between employers and representatives of metal workers were lacking in results, according to a despatch from that city to the London Times. It appears, however, that the extremists have met with a reverse.
Negotiations lasting until a late hour to-night were undertaken at the instance of the Prefect of Milan upon orders from the Italian Government. The nature of the discussion was kept secret.
Occupation of the Carlo Erba chemical works at Milan this morning is looked upon as a precursor of the taking over of 200 similar establishments, the production of which are indispensable to the metal industry. The Pirelli works at Milan and several additional factories at Turin, chiefly those manufacturing Indian rubber materials, were also occupied to-day.
Work shops at Milan which have been seized by metal workers have been fired and made revolutionary centres, says the Milan correspondent of the Herald, organ of labor. Each plant has been converted into a defensive blockhouse, manned by guards armed with rifles and bombs. There are 2,000 of these blockhouses flying the red flag and defended by 400,000 men, it is said.

Must Stand by Agreements.
When a body of men collectively refrain from working by mutual understanding, however arrived at, it is a strike, no matter what name may be given to it. Our people have fought a great war and made untold sacrifices to insure among other things that a solemn agreement shall not be considered as a mere scrap of paper. We have declined to enter into friendly relations with Governments that boast of their readiness to violate treaties whenever it suits their own convenience, and under these circumstances we could not look the world in the face or justify our own conduct if we yielded one iota to the men in the anthracite coal fields who are violating the contracts so recently entered into between themselves, the coal operators and the Government of the United States.
"I appreciate the earnestness of your efforts to get the men to return to work and commend your stand in support of the obligations of your contracts, which all men must honor, but for the reasons stated above I regret that I cannot grant your request to reconvene the joint scale committee of operators and miners."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Bids were opened at the Post Office Department to-day for airplane service by private contract for three new routes. Alfred W. Lawson of Chicago put in the only tender received.
He agreed to furnish service from Pittsburgh to St. Louis via Columbus, Cincinnati and Indianapolis, for one year for $147,000. Between New York and Chicago, via Harrisburg, Pittsburgh and Washington, the bid was $238,000. Between New York and Atlanta, via Washington, Raleigh and Columbia, $300,000. The Department said awards would probably be made in a few days.

Special to THE SUN and NEW YORK HERALD.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—President Wilson to-day informed the outlaw anthracite mine strikers that the Government can have no dealing with labor unions or groups of union members who regard their solemn written agreements as mere scraps of paper.
A letter carrying his message of defiance was written to United Mine Workers officials who had asked him to reopen the wage award recently made by the Anthracite Commission. The President refused to reopen the award. He commended the regularly constituted officers of the United Mine Workers who carried out their agreement to accept the report and roundly denounced the members of the union who went on strike.
The message to the miners was probably the most bitter the President has addressed to laboring men in some time. It follows another message recently sent to anthracite miners, who threatened to refrain from work if the President accepted the majority report of the commission. On that occasion the miners told their challenge would be accepted.

Text of President's Letter.
"I am in receipt of your telegram of September 3." Mr. Wilson wrote. "You are correct in your statement that the award of the Anthracite Coal Commission into an agreement with the anthracite operators despite the fact that you are convinced that the award in itself does not provide that measure of justice to which you believe your people are entitled. I sincerely thank you for the promptness with which you have accepted the conditions of the anthracite miners in recent years and which lays the foundation for still further progress.
"You ask me to convene the joint scale committee of operators and miners for the purpose of adjusting certain inequalities which you assert exist in the award of the Anthracite Coal Commission. In that connection your attention is called to a telegram which I sent to Enoch Williams and others in reply to a telegram I received from them stating that the anthracite miners had accepted the present award. I am sure that the award of the Anthracite Coal Commission on or before September 1."

HARDING'S CITY TOUR TO LAST FIVE WEEKS
Will Make Five Speeches a Week After September 25.
At the headquarters of the Republican National Committee here yesterday it was stated that Senator Harding would spend practically all of the last five weeks of the campaign making important speeches in large cities. The last strictly "front porch" delegation it was said, will be composed of salesmen and commercial travelers.
It is understood that the plans for the last five weeks of the campaign contemplate about five carefully prepared speeches a week and that no "harm-greeting" will be done.
Preparatory to the trip to Marion, Indiana, Mr. Harding will visit several of the 10,000 salesmen and commercial travelers in New York will be held under the auspices of the New York Salesmen's Association. Mr. Harding will be accompanied by his wife and daughter. Mr. Herbert L. Schamber is chairman of the arrangements committee.
In addition to the men from New York the delegation to visit Senator Harding will include men from New England, San Francisco, Chicago, St. Louis and other commercial centers.

NOMINEE IS GRATIFIED
Says He Is 'a Willing Worker' and Welcomes Speechmaking Trip.
PROVES BIG VOTE GETTER
Even Democrats Have to Admit Senator's Success in Minnesota.

By a Staff Correspondent of THE SUN and NEW YORK HERALD.
MARION, Ohio, Sept. 10.—Senator Harding was informed to-night by THE SUN and NEW YORK HERALD that the Republican National Committee's New York headquarters had issued a statement saying Senator Harding would spend nearly all the last five weeks of the campaign in a speech-making tour of big cities, East and West.
"The National Committee knows that I am a willing worker," said the Senator. "I know the general scope of the program and it has my approval. Some of the details have not yet been worked out and are subject to change, possibly expansion."
The statement will cause no surprise here, its purport was stated in a despatch from this city yesterday. The extraordinary success of Mr. Harding's brief Minnesota tour settled one end of the question of how he takes with the people. It opened the eyes of Republican campaign managers to the folly of burying such a vote-getter. He admitted, as they departed from St. Paul that Senator Harding was much too good a man to be wasted in front porch work—that he was a big game hunter, not a shooter of sparrows.

All Admit Trip's Success.
Another cause for the change of program was the uniformity of judgment passed by the newspapers that had more or less direct, accurate means of appraising Mr. Harding's first contact with people in the mass and in little groups. His first, that is, as a Presidential nominee. The tour was pronounced successful not merely by Republican observers, who might be supposed to look through rose colored glasses, but by neutrals and by Democratic lookers-on.
There was in fact, not a dissenting opinion as to the splendid welcome Harding received in St. Paul and Minneapolis and to the general approval and effective response he made whenever he permitted him to take to the road.
Naturally, as THE SUN and NEW YORK HERALD ascertained in its despatch yesterday, the campaign program has been changed to fit this new and satisfactory condition. The plans of the Republican National Committee for the present do not include speeches in a dozen large cities, among them New York, about October 23; Baltimore, Boston, Indianapolis, Louisville, Jacksonville, St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha, Oklahoma City. The plan contemplates a final visit to Cleveland, where Harding will end the campaign.

COX IS BOLDER IN NEW ATTACK
Time to Consider Indicting Will Hays, He Tells Folks on Pacific Coast.
HAS EYE ON WASHINGTON
Hopes to Carry Northwestern State That Gave Wilson Vote in Last Election.
By a Staff Correspondent of THE SUN and NEW YORK HERALD.
WALLA WALLA, Wash., Sept. 10.—Increasingly bitter attacks upon the Republican leadership marked Gov. Cox's swing through the State of Washington to-day in an eager attempt to turn the jumbled political situation in his favor. The flat proposal was put forth that it is time to consider a presidential sentence for Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican National Committee. Senator Harding was attacked because of his silence on the scandal about Republican campaign funds, and the Republican organization was accused of poisoning the mind of America with "malicious misinformation" about the League of Nations.
Gov. Cox devoted the day to stumping through the eastern portion of the State, travelling almost continuously. He made a dozen speeches, chief of them that at the Washington State Fair in Spokane. Although the skies were overcast the crowds were large and cheering. The State Fair speech, non-political and addressed to first voters, attracting upward of 10,000.

Recalls Ross Tweed.
Gov. Cox seized upon a statement by John W. Weeks, formerly Senator from Massachusetts, that $15,000,000 contributed to the Republican campaign fund would be a good investment. This he used to stir at Chairman Hays.
"Recall Will Hays and his associates," he said. "Recall the man who made a broadcast denial," he said. "Now that they have been caught with the goods on them, the policy to be adopted manifestly is that which Senator Weeks expressed."
"It will remind the country of the days of Boss Tweed. When he was caught, he said, 'What are you going to do about it?' The people answered by sending him to the penitentiary. Present circumstances are pretty strong suggestions of the need of the same kind of remedy now."

Argues Hard for League.
"American public opinion has been poisoned with malicious misinformation," he charged. "But you can't fool the people long. Our opponents have been saying that the League of Nations is a 'British League,' and then in the next breath they say it is a 'Wilson League.' The facts are history."
With this Gov. Cox entered a long discussion of the way in which the covenant was drafted, asserting that not less than 30 minutes had devoted themselves to it in preliminary preparation. Then, he added, a committee of nine men representing four different nations at the Paris Peace Conference, with President Wilson as chairman, drew the covenant.

He swore that the money to meet its budget of $5,075,000 was obtained the National Committee would stop collecting. CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—The Kenyon committee virtually completed to-day its investigation of Gov. Cox's charges regarding the Republican campaign fund, and then, over the protest of Ed Moore, the Governor's envoy extraordinary, turned to a new phase of the inquiry. The committee apparently intends to find out just how active are the "liquor interests" in behalf of Cox and how much they are contributing, through their associations or individually, to his Presidential campaign.
The Senators have sat here for eight days, with several night sessions, calling witnesses on their own account and those suggested by Mr. Moore. They have listened to all Mr. Moore has to say under direct and cross examination. They have patiently accepted all the "leads" he has given to them down to the last telegram and pink newspaper clipping, and have summoned from as far away as Arizona the man who Mr. Moore said could prove the charges true. The result is that the Governor's accusations have fallen flat, from a Republican standpoint, and were hugely exaggerated, from any standpoint.
Now, although Mr. Moore was in and out of the witness stand again to-day, pouring more telegrams and newspaper clippings upon the committee as fast as the telegraph and mail messengers could fetch them to him, the Republican majority of the committee feels that the country will recognize that Cox's "case," such as it is, is complete.

An Open Campaign Found.
Senators Edge and Spencer, Republicans, believe, in fact, that Mr. Moore knew several days ago that he had shot his bolt and merely was trying to hold the committee in session in the hope that something might turn up which he could seize upon to turn to Gov. Cox's account and counterbalance the preponderating weight of evidence as to the decency and openness of the Republican campaign. Senators Edge and Spencer have been frankly told that they have been caught with the goods on them, the policy to be adopted manifestly is that which Senator Weeks expressed.
"It will remind the country of the days of Boss Tweed. When he was caught, he said, 'What are you going to do about it?' The people answered by sending him to the penitentiary. Present circumstances are pretty strong suggestions of the need of the same kind of remedy now."
